Offers help and guidance to anyone looking to work in public service whether they are running for office, advocating for a cause, or fighting for a public policy issue.

At thirty-four, English professor Paul Avery cannot see himself as a father. In fact, he thinks children are little beasts. To his surprise, he meets two men with sons during the month of May and his negative view about children begins to unexpectedly change. Enter Matthew Hildebrand, one of Paul's students at Castling College. Matthew is twenty-two and the father of Aiden, a six-year-old adorable little child. Soon Paul is befriended by the father and son team. Then Paul meets handsome and professional architect, Dugan Brae, who is thirty-five and the father of seven-year-old Colby, a gifted little boy. After much convincing, Paul agrees to go on a date with Dugan, and surprisingly, the two hit it off. Plus, Paul finds Colby irresistible, creating a fresh friendship with the child. As May turns into June, Paul is pulled in different directions by both Matthew and Dugan. And in due time, Paul must make a decision. With whom does he fall in love? Either one gains him a son, creating an instant family. Through the daily trials and tribulations of dating, babysitting, and just having Hendrickson has two things in life: his job as an assistant district attorney, and his son Davey. Other than that, he lives alone in a house that's too big, too empty, too... lonely. It's not just Cameron's life that might change for the better when Scott takes him in. Scott can provide material things and security, but Cameron returns the favor by breathing fresh air into Scott's stale life. Two men who need each other... one magical holiday season. Could a little Christmas magic be all that's needed to bring the biggest gift of all? Maybe Cameron doesn't need a Sugar Daddy... because he already has a Santa Daddy. This is the third book in a series about not-so-perfect Daddies, adorable "boys," and one sassy brat with an insane list of rules. Asperger's syndrome. He's hopeless at reading social cues or expressing himself well to others, though he is brilliant in many ways. He has a special focus on one subject—forensic analysis. A police scanner in his room clues him in to crime scenes, and he's always showing up and telling the cops what to do. And he's usually right. But when Jacob's small hometown is rocked by a terrible murder, law enforcement comes to him. Jacob's behaviors are hallmark Asperger's, but they look a lot like guilt to the local police. Suddenly the Hunt family, who only want to fit in, are thrust directly in the spotlight. For Jacob's mother, it's a brutal reminder of the intolerance and misunderstanding that always threaten her family. For his brother, it's another indication why nothing is normal because of Jacob. And for the frightened small town, the soul-searing question looms: Did Jacob commit murder? House Rules is “a provocative story in which [Picoult] explores the pain of trying to comprehend the people we love—and reminds us that the truth often travels in disguise” (People).

Growing up in foster care taught him to be strong, so finding himself in a violent relationship was a shock. Now that he's finally free of it, he faces new problems. He's jobless, homeless, and terrified of starting from scratch. With a little help from an old friend, Adam discovers a whole new world. He goes from rock bottom to renting a room from a hot assistant DA and working at Daddy's Lap, a kink club that opens his vanilla eyes to things he'd never imagined. His new roommate is a balm to Adam's damaged soul. The tender way Travis cares for him is almost like the Daddy kink community he's seen at the club. But Travis isn't a Daddy... right? If he were, surely he'd have said so. What happens when a lie by omission threatens to bring their budding relationship tumbling down around them? Will Travis ever be able to earn Adam's trust again? -BERT BURYKILL, Vice Magazine There are nearly three million adults in the U.S. alone that are in prison or jail. Many of these being parents that leave behind unanswered questions with their children: What is jail? Why did this happen? Is it my fault? Is my daddy (or mommy) bad? Do they love me? My Daddy's in Jail is a story of two bears who have a father in prison. The book is narrated by a very odd cockroach.

ostensibly designed to assassinate Fidel Castro. The action ranges from Washington, D.C., to Chicago, Tampa and Miami, New Orleans and Dallas, Mexico, Cuba and the Caribbean islands. The protagonist, James Eamon Foley, is menaced by forces unknown for reasons unclear, gets help, and finally extricates himself from the illegal black operation in ironic congruence with the assassination of President Kennedy. Were the two disparate plots interlinked merely as a quirk of history or by more sinister influences at work? Agent Under Glass at last sets the record straight, laying bare the "dirty little secret" at the heart of the murderous conspiracy that culminated in the atrocity in Dallas.

Mr. Hatfield with all of his years of experience in marriage, parenting, family, missions and in the Church pulls no punches in calling Christ's Bride to return to His Truth (God's revealed Law-Word) regarding discipleship (men and women of faith and grace) in Manhood and Womanhood, outrageously successful spousal relations, parenting with training in romance, sexual satisfaction, love and marriage! He is calling all believers, especially men, to confession and repentance and to receive, understand and apply these Truths in the Power of the Holy Spirit as the only acceptable response in which God will revive and reform the Family and the Church in the 21st Century! Not for the weak-kneed, weak-minded or humanistically influenced, this is for Christ's Bride as we prepare for and anticipate His return! These applications of God's revealed Law-Word and His uncommon common sense in the lives of America's postmodern Christian culture and especially the promise of duplicating of these successes for love and marriage in our children, is exciting and challenging to the point of precedent setting magnitudes. The reader will experience riveting and exciting challenges to the status quo of our present day Christian culture. "Based on interviews with more than 1000 adults nationwide, the survey discovered that less than one out of every five adults believes that children under the age of 13 are being "superbly" or "pretty well" prepared for life emotionally, physically, spiritually, intellectually or physically. Fewer than one out of every twenty adults believes that America's youngsters are receiving above average preparation in all five of those areas of life." Americans Agree: "Kids Are Not Being Prepared for Life," The Barna Group-October 26, 2004 The couples, who discover the answers to the moral morass of our postmodern Christian culture, are those who know that the future of their children is in jeopardy and that we are in a war for the control of that future! Sadly, the statistics of broken homes, divorces, adultery, domestic violence, drugs and promiscuity - to mention only some of the ills of our culture - are almost equally divided between "Christian" families and non-Christian families. This is unacceptable as a comparison and must change. Consequently, fathers and mothers of faith and grace are those - who are and or who will experience - God's promise of victory over these fruits of our fallen nature and live a marriage experience that captures the best of God's gifts of love, sex and romance in marriage. Daddy's Little Girl and Mommy's Little Boy brings us clear evidence of just how America's Christian couples can have this victory in their marriage and how to duplicate this success in their sons and daughters.

Steve Rasnic Tem once said his writing was filtered through “a different lens to view the world.” With a style all his own, Tem has galvanized and thrilled fans of weird fiction worldwide. His efforts have earned him the Bram Stoker, World Fantasy and British Fantasy Awards. His métier is the monstrous secret, the unsettling darkness hidden within all of us. “Bedtime Story” opens with a line that defines Tem’s style: “I don’t know why bad things happen. There’s never a good reason. They just do.” The story introduces us to a nightmare conjured from the mind of a child, preparing to victimize her own father. “The Unmasking” takes us into the tortured psyche of a horribly deformed recluse obsessed with the intricacies of human skin. “Outside,” one of several homages to the great H.P. Lovecraft, melds Tem’s uniquely poetic style with the cosmic horror created by that twisted gentleman from Providence. “The Masque of Edgar Allan Poe” focuses on Tem’s fondness for mask imagery, and how the veneer we wear on the surface can become immobile, consuming our souls. “The Doll Thief” is a deeply disturbing exercise in pathos, perversion and psychosis. In "Pulled Down to Sleep," a man fights to remain awake, knowing that sleep will doom him to a life of unspeakable nightmares. "Worms" is a frightening tale of vengeance that will literally leave your skin crawling. With "Mother Hag," Tem gives us a "grim" fairy tale about monstrous motherly love, courtesy of a grotesque, carnivorous witch.

From the author of the classic Mom's House, Dad's House, the essential guide for kids on how to stay strong and succeed in life when parents separate, divorce, or get married again. Isolina Ricci's Mom's House, Dad's House has been the gold standard for inspiring and supporting divorcing and remarrying parents for more than twenty-five years. With her new book, Dr. Isa adapts her time-tested advice on maneuvering the emotional, logistical, and legal realities of separation, divorce, and stepfamilies to speak directly to children. Alongside practical ways to cope with big changes she offers older children and their families key resiliency tools that kids can use now and the rest of their lives. Kids and families are encouraged to believe in themselves, to take heart, and to plan for their lives ahead. Mom's House, Dad's House for Kids is packed with practical tips, frank answers, easy-to-use lists, "train your brain" ideas, reproducible worksheets, and things to try when words just won't come out right. Kids will learn how to:

- Deal with parents living apart, schedules, and dueling house rules
- Settle comfortably in one home or two
- Stay out of the "miserable middle" when parents fight
- Manage stress, guilt, change, fear, and other feelings
- Stay connected with parents, relatives, and the "right" friends
- Appreciate the gifts (and deal with the gripes) of their new version of family
- Feel better FAST! Kids can't get their parents back together, but they can help themselves get stronger and go on to succeed in life. This book shows them how.

impressive grace and humour. Rachel Sontag grew up the daughter of a well-liked doctor in an upper middle class suburb of Chicago. The view from outside couldn't have been more perfect. But within the walls of the family home, Rachel's life was controlled and indeed terrorized by her father's serious depression. In prose that is both precise and rich, Rachel's childhood experience unfolds in a chronological recounting that shows how her father became more and more disturbed as Rachel grew up. A visceral and wrenching exploration of the impact of a damaged psyche on those nearest to him, House Rules will keep you reading even when you most wish you could look away. In the middle of the night, Dad sent Mom to wake me. In my pajamas, I sat across from them in the living room. I was sure Grandma had died and I remember deciding to stay strong when Dad told me. "What did you say to her?" he asked. His elbows rested in his lap. "What do you mean?" "You spent a good half hour alone in that hospital room. What did you talk about?" "I don't know, Dad" "What do you mean, you don't know? You know. You know exactly what you talked to her about." "You talked about me, Rachel." "No. I didn't." "To my own mother?" . . . I wondered how he'd been with Mom, how she'd missed the signs. He couldn't have just turned crazy all of a sudden. I wondered if his own father had infected him with anger. Daddy-Long-Legs is a novel by the American writer Jean Webster. It follows the protagonist, a young girl named Jerusha 'Judy' Abbott, through her college years. She writes the letters to her benefactor, a rich man whom she has never seen.

A guide to raising children covers the principles of adapting a parenting style to match a particular child's needs, establishing a structure and limits, and promoting such qualities as honesty, kindness, and independence.

Rosa needs to be straightened out. Her husband, Ozzie, told her that it was three strikes and you're out the first time she dented the BMW that he purchased for her birthday. What happens in a relationship stays in a relationship. In their relationship, Ozzie is the boss, so he Rosa's her car keys and puts her through a series of discipline, starting with the rule that she must spend the entire weekend crawling on her hands and knees. What other discipline will naughty little Rosa have to endure? More importantly, will Rosa learn her lesson? □EXCERPT: □ As she got to the stairwell, ready to go upstairs and unwind with some television, she heard Ozzie's voice shake her to her core. "That's not it," he said. Rosa wrinkled her nose and asked a question that she was almost too afraid to. "What else?" she asked. "If I let you off the hook with just not being able to drive anymore, you're never going to learn. I think I need to spend all weekend teaching you a lesson," he said. Rosa frowned, having no clue where Ozzie was going with this. "On your knees," he said. A huge feeling of relief ran through Rosa. One reason she and Ozzie work so well together is that Rosa doesn't have the same sexual hang-ups that other women her age do. She's been decidedly sex positive for as long as she can remember. Because of that, she's become a bit of a blowjob queen throughout her life. "If you wanted some head, all you had to do is ask," Rosa said, suddenly feeling very frisky. She clutched the charm to her diamond and gold bejeweled necklace and sauntered over to her man with raunchy thoughts and feelings in mind. Rosa is the type to get dressed up, even just to go grocery shopping, so she has on a stunning turquoise summer dress with a series of bracelets adorning her wrists. The nape of the dress accentuates her perky b cups and her round derriere appeared supple enough to bite. When she got back into the living room, Ozzie had put the book down and was sitting casually on the couch, wearing a bit of a smug expression. Rosa looked into his deep, strong eyes and ran her fingertips along his chiseled jawline. "Baby, if you wanted some head, all you had to do is ask," she said with a breathy, sexy tone of voice. Rosa dropped down to her knees and ran her fingertips along the front of Ozzie's pants. She was shocked beyond belief when he grabbed her wrists to stop her. "You misunderstand. I meant get on your knees because that's where you will be all weekend until and unless I say otherwise," he said. Rosa was deeply puzzled. "I-I don't understand," she said. "I'm realizing that it's going to take more than words to straighten you out. Daddy's going to have to punish you. So while I appreciate your offer, I won't be requiring those services, I do require you to learn your place. And the best way to learn your place is on your knees. Do I make myself clear?" Ozzie asked. That's when it happened. Something triggered deep inside of Rosa and her entire body felt sensitive to the touch. Her breath quickened. Her nipples jutted out, erect, hard enough to cut. She felt moist heat spread throughout her pulsating vulva. She liked this. "I understand," Rosa said, before she even knew the words were coming. "You understand, who?" Ozzie asked. "I understand, daddy," Rosa said.

Davey's Rule #83: Daddy will encourage his boy to be the best he can be and be supportive of his boy's career choices. Marcus Alves has waited most of his adult life to find the perfect match. A sweetheart who will love cuddles, need a Daddy to help him thrive, and most importantly... be the type of boy that might want to use the binky that Marcus keeps hidden in his pocket. Now in his forties, he's refusing to give up on his dream-or the unused playroom that's waiting for someone to enjoy. Jeff Robustelli has had a rough life. Growing up in a commune with absent parents was hard for a rule-following straitlaced guy with a genius IQ. When the uncle who saved him died, Jeff did what he does best-buried his head in the sand and pretended life wasn't changing. Working in a Daddy club has shown him what he really wants, but Jeff is too afraid to take a chance on something new. When Jeff has a sudden need for a fake fiancé, he strikes a deal with the older man who always seems to be there when his world is crumbling and makes him feel safe. In exchange, he agrees to a fake Daddy/boy experiment designed to let him try out being little without any pressure. While Marcus and Jeff navigate their "deal" and the unexpected new feelings that begin to emerge, Marcus also must help the younger man through a series of life changes Davey's Revised Rule #1: A good Daddy will love his boy with all his heart. Davey Hendrickson doesn't mind being forever single when he's got his bestie at his side. It's not that he wants to be single. He's spent most of his adult life searching for his own perfect Daddy. Even if he's not naturally submissive, someone that fabulous is obviously meant to be a boy... right? Over the years, he's dated every type of Daddy imaginable but not one of them could come close to meeting the requirements from his ridiculous list of rules. After losing his husband, Sammy Robustelli has learned to be strong while raising two children on his own. No matter what life has thrown his way, nothing seems too hard with his best friend and roomie Davey at his side. When the two friends learn that people believe they're a couple, they can't help but laugh. The very idea is a big joke... until it isn't. It only takes a few wake-up calls before Davey wonders what happens if a guy might be in love with the best friend he can never have. It could never work for a pair of boys in need of a bossy top, right? Except... maybe Davey doesn't know himself-or Sammy-as well as he thinks. In this world, Daddy makes the rules. Kit is one of the last holdouts of a female-led resistance to our government's utopian vision. She's tough. Maybe too tough. She's never known real laughter. She's never let herself cry. I intend to change that. I am Senator Roman Daley, and I started the colony of Paternas to reform women like Kit. Here, I plan to give her what she needs: the firm guidance of the daddy she never had. I want to give her the childhood she never know. That will mean love and nuturing. It will also mean taking her over my knee and spanking her until she begs for mercy. My goal is to make her my mate. But there's another reason I'm doing this. The utopian world of New Bethel isn't as perfect as it seems. I'll need Kit's help to change it, but first I have to earn her obedience.

University. When Jay went home with Louise to get interrogated, even before he could take Louise on a date, his time in the army and in college was the only thing that got him through the doors. Jay returned home from college for the summer and for Christmas. Louise found out that Jay was not coming because he had to go to Detroit to help his uncles run their nightclub. Louise was devastated; she was in love with Jay. He seemed to be life. She had gotten Jay's number from his sister and called him. They had a fight on the phone, but they made up. After his job went on strike and closed down, Jay was at the club all the time, day and night. Jay was still living in Detroit; he traveled back to Miami long enough to make another baby and he was gone again. They had three kids and a rotten marriage. Things got so bad they went their own separate ways. Jay brought his girlfriend whenever he visited Miami to see the kids. Louise met someone while going back to nursing school. Their relationship got very serious. Louise later had a baby daughter for him. Even then Louise and Jay were still fussing and fighting whenever Jay visited the kids. They had a bittersweet love for each other, and no one wanted to say those two words: I'm sorry.

Coudray wishes to bare Gabrielle's truth and help her find the will to stand up to her bullying husband and end her marriage. In return for allowing him to dominate her, he vows to love, protect and cherish her in every sense. But when a dangerous man from Valentin's past reappears to threaten Gabrielle and her ex-husband attempts to manipulate her with guilt back into his arms, the lovers are forced to fight to stay together.

Follow Puddinhead and her siblings as they bicycle around the neighborhood, play in the backyard with Daddy, and venture into the luscious farmer's market! Tonight is Mommy and Daddy's wedding anniversary, and Puddinhead can't wait to see them all dressed up ready for their date. But will Puddinhead's disastrous attempt to ride an older boy's bicycle leave Daddy too upset for his big night?Children and parents alike will adore this installment ofPuddinhead's Daddyas they learn about why Daddy is so important to the family!

The Carson brothers owe me big time. Of course, they can't pay.

That's why my empire is thriving—it's built on other people's weaknesses. When it's time to collect what they owe, I see her.

Rebecca Carson, their youngest sister. The darkness that surrounds her is intoxicating. The pain in her eyes is addicting. She's most likely too good for me and most definitely too fragile. A good man would probably walk away. A good man wouldn't lock her into his bedroom so that he will be the only one to touch her. A good man wouldn't make her submit to his depraved desires. But I am not a good man. This short romance is over-the-top and deliciously dark. Possessive alpha meets mouthy brat who just wants to be left alone. Spoiler: He most definitely won't leave her alone.

Puddinhead's Daddy

Out of the Dark

Feeling at Home in One Home or Two

There are two sides to every fantasy. Her side Every girl has her dirty little secret. For Sydney, it's her dad's hot, broody boss. But who can blame her? A million dollars just to live with him and all she has to do is whatever he wants her to. In exchange, he'll drop the charges against her daddy. It's an easy decision. Until she realizes he isn't the man she thinks he is. Hiding underneath the boring, three-piece lawyer suit, and salt and pepper hair is a domineering sex god. He's possessive, intense, and makes her body shiver even when he isn't touching her. When he isn't around, she finds herself wanting him to be. That's how she knows he has her and that it isn't so easy after all. What's happening between them is something she can never imagine, or escape. He's her lover and she's his captive. The question is, does she want to be saved? His side Mysterious playboy and Los Angeles district attorney, Tristan Garrett, always get what he wants, especially in the bedroom. He handles his "relationships" the way he runs a courtroom, with rules, punishments, and rewards and that's exactly how he wants to handle Sydney Warren. He's imagined having her in his bed for years. But she's the daughter of his assistant prosecutor and more importantly, she's underage. He has morals, despite his upbringing. Good things come to those who wait and with her eighteenth birthday just around the corner, he doesn't

Her father ruled her world. Her mother couldn't save her. So she had to save herself. Rachel Sontag grew up in a family of four whose apparently happy exterior concealed a disturbing pattern of psychological abuse by her father and a distressing passivity on her mother's part. Rachel was a bright and loving girl who tried to please her parents. But nothing was ever good enough for her pathologically controlling father, who would drag her out of bed in the middle of the night and force her to repeat after him: 'I'm stupid, I'm worthless, I wish I had never been born'. Her mother, on and off anti-depressants and entirely under the sway of her husband, could - or would - do nothing but watch. As Rachel's family slowly crumbles under the pressure of a man who refuses to accept his children for what they are, Rachel is forced to ever greater extremes in order to free herself from his crushing grip, in this compelling and beautifully written memoir. A charming trio of adorable romances celebrates the wonders of impending motherhood and includes Sharon Sala's "Sympathy Pains," in which an
