after her father was killed, sixteen-year-old Peyton Delaney, her mother, Melody, and new stepfather, Vance McIntyre, relocate to Shadow Bay, Minnesota and move into an old Victorian. They are unaware of the house's dark history--fifty years ago, a jealous husband snapped, murdering his wife, her lover, and sixteen-year-old daughter before killing himself. But when Peyton begins to have nightmares about the crime and is haunted by a ghostly teenage girl named Caitlyn, she begins to investigate with the help of the caretaker's cute son, Bryant. As the two delve into the supernatural mystery surrounding the house, they discover that the events that led to the tragedy of fifty years ago are somehow intertwined with the present. In other words, history is repeating itself and Peyton, Bryant, and their parents are being drawn into a disturbing case of jealousy, possession, revenge, and murder, while seemingly powerless to prevent the inevitable from taking place all over again. Caitlyn is a ghost who has had to relive the nightmare of being murdered by her father for half a century. When Peyton and her family arrive at the house where Caitlyn's spirit has remained trapped, she feels a connection to Peyton and knows instinctively that it will take the two of them to not only free Caitlyn at long last, but to prevent her tragedy from becoming one that Peyton too must endure. Dead Lake* When sixteen-year-old Paige Preston and her mother relocated to Dead Lake, Michigan, they were unaware that a seventeen-year-old previous resident of their house had killed himself by jumping off a cliff into the lake six months earlier. But was it really suicide? Noah Snyder is a ghost. At least he thinks so. Only he's not sure how he died. He recruits the attractive Paige to help him get to the bottom of the mystery so he can move on. Before he died, Noah was the captain of the boys swim team and popular at Dead Lake High School. He had also suffered from depression after losing his father when Noah was just a boy. Paige, who had initially believed she was dealing with an imposter Noah, is stunned to find out that he is a real ghost and that there were more than a few people who may have wanted him dead. Being attracted to a cute teen ghost is no small feat as Paige tries to adjust to life in a new town and help unravel the mystery of his death. In the process, she soon finds herself in danger, as someone wants to keep a deadly secret at all costs. Praise for R. Barri Flowers "Great mystery and I loved the narration. The narrator really brought the story to life! I will highly recommend this mystery to my friends and family!" -- Amazon reviewer on Ghost Girl in Shadow Bay "This was like 'Sweet Valley High' meets 'True Blood'.... I think my students would really love this book." -- Brittany Elsen, Book Reviewer on Count Dracula's Teenage Daughter "The story was fast paced and had a lot of twist and turns... I would recommend this book for people who enjoy a good vampire YA book, it's packed with teenage drama and triangles that will keep you turning the pages." -- Ordinary Girlz Book Reviews on Out for Blood "A very interesting concept and world that Flowers has written. With the introduction of a few more key players, I see some real potential in the future of the series." -- Hot Off the Shelves on Out for Blood

The best-known of Shirley Jackson's novels, and the inspiration for writers such as Neil Gaiman and Stephen King, The Haunting of Hill House is a chilling story of the power of fear. 'Shirley Jackson's stories are among the most terrifying ever written' Donna Tartt, author of The Goldfinch and The Secret History Four seekers have arrived at the rambling old pile known as Hill House: Dr. Montague, an occult scholar looking for solid evidence of psychic phenomena; Theodora, his lovely assistant; Luke, the future inheritor of the estate; and Eleanor, a friendless, fragile young woman with a dark past. As they begin to cope with horrifying occurrences beyond their control or understanding, they cannot possibly know what lies ahead. For Hill House is gathering its powers - and soon it will choose one of them to make its own. Adapted into a film, The Haunting, starring Liam Neeson, Catherine Zeta-Jones and Owen Wilson, The Haunting of Hill House is a powerful work of slow-burning psychological horror. Shirley Jackson's was born in California in 1916. When her short story The Lottery was first published in the New Yorker in 1948, readers were so horrified they sent her hate mail; it has since become one of the most iconic American stories of all time. Her first novel, The Road Through the Wall, was published in the same year and was followed by five more: Hangsaman, The Bird's Nest, The Sundial, The Haunting of Hill House and We Have Always Lived in the Castle, widely seen as her masterpiece. Shirley Jackson died in her sleep at the age of 48. If you enjoyed The Haunting of Hill House, you might like Jackson's We Have Always Lived in the Castle, also available in Penguin Modern Classics. 'An amazing writer ... If you haven't read her you have missed out on something marvellous' Neil Gaiman 'As nearly perfect a haunted-house tale as I have ever read' Stephen King 'The world of Shirley Jackson is eerie and unforgettable' A. M. Homes 'Shirley Jackson is one of those highly idiosyncratic, inimitable writers...whose work exerts an enduring spell' Joyce Carol Oates

Two amateur psychics. A reckless ghost hunter. Caine House has awakened, ready or not. Emmie thinks the worst is over. Sarah hopes Emmie is right. But the apparitions of Hanging House haven't deterred Finn from intensifying his hunt. He knows they're real. And he wants more. When a famous haunted house in a nearby town is put up for rent, Finn doesn't hesitate to move in. How can he resist? It's a ghost hunter's paradise. With an arsenal of equipment, a healthy dose of skepticism, the bravado of knowing he's "been through this before", and a secret wound of his own, he's ready to face the unseen head-on. What could go wrong? But Caine House has its own agenda, and as Finn gets ensnared by its clever apparitions and violent mysteries, he realizes too late that he's bitten off more than he can chew. And now only two people can help him. Emmie and Sarah rush to the rescue, but soon face a nightmare of their own. Caine House is somehow connected to the death of Emmie's parents, and Sarah needs to come to terms with her gift of empathy before it destroys her. The three friends gather their courage and skills to “A fascinating and frightening book” (Los Angeles Times)—the bestselling true story about a house possessed by evil spirits, haunted by psychic phenomena almost too terrible to describe. In December 1975, the Lutz family moved into their new home on suburban Long Island. George and Kathleen Lutz knew that, one year earlier, Ronald DeFeo had murdered his parents, brothers, and sisters in the house, but the property—complete with boathouse and swimming pool—and the price had been too good to pass up. Twenty-eight days later, the entire Lutz family fled in terror. This is the spellbinding, shocking true story that gripped the nation about an American dream that turned into a nightmare beyond imagining—“this book will scare the hell out of you” (Kansas City Star).

Windwood Farm has a terrible secret—one that's been buried for nearly 100 years. Taryn Magill aims to uncover it...or die trying. As a mixed media artist and urban explorer with a love for abandoned houses and a big imagination when it comes to the past, 30 year old Taryn has never really met an old house she didn't like. In fact, she's made a career out of painting these sad, often derelict structures, to show them in their former glory for her clients. With Windwood Farm, though, she might have bitten off more than she can chew! The locals refer to it as "the devil's house" and even vandals have stayed away from this once grand stone farmhouse in Vidalia, Kentucky. Hired by the Stokes County Historical Society to paint it before it's demolished by a land development company, Taryn's determined to make friends with the house and farm everyone around her seems to be terrified of. As it turns out, though, their fears may just not be unfounded. Who is the woman whose cries echo throughout the farm and what does she want? What negative force about the house is so powerful that it won't even allow the upstairs bedroom to be touched? Does the 93 year old vanishing of the next door neighbor have anything to do with the house's mysteries? Taryn wants the answers to these and the house may just be trying to tell her because now, when she looks through her camera, she doesn't have to use her imagination to see the past— SHE CAN SEE IT! Will Taryn be able to figure out what

The House on Cold Hill is a chilling and suspenseful ghost story from the multi-million copy bestselling author of Dead Simple, Peter James. 'Superbly creepy modern horror story' Book of the Week, Sunday Mirror 'Impecable' Sunday Times Moving from the heart of Brighton and Hove to the Sussex countryside is a big undertaking for Ollie and Caro Harcourt and their twelve-year-old daughter Jade. But when they view Cold Hill House - a huge, dilapidated Georgian mansion - Ollie is filled with excitement. Despite the financial strain of the move, he has dreamed of living in the country since he was a child, and he sees Cold Hill House as a paradise for his animal-loving daughter, the perfect base for his web-design business and a terrific long-term investment. Caro is less certain, and Jade is grumpy about being separated from her friends. Within days of moving in, it becomes apparent that the Harcourt family aren't the only residents of the house. A friend of Jade's is the first to see the spectral woman, standing behind her as the girls talk on FaceTime. Then there are

When the local mailman inherits a haunted house and demands an exorcism, Pen must act fast to save her favorite ghost in this Haunted Bookshop mystery from New York Times bestselling author Cleo Coyle, writing as Alice Kimberly. Bookshop owner Penelope Thornton-McClure didn't believe in ghosts—until she met the spirit of hard-boiled 1940s detective Jack Shepard. And when Pen's friend and mailman, Seymour Tarnish, gets into deep trouble, Pen not only believes in her ghost—she also thinks he can help...

An elderly lady of leisure has been found dead on posh Larchmont Avenue, her will recently, and suspiciously, revised to name Seymour as heir to her mansion. Just as eyes turn to him as the murderer—and Seymour gets busy settling into his ritzy digs—the mansion's ghosts begin plaguing him. So he hires a team of parapsychologists to exorcise all the spirits from the town of Quindicott—and that includes Jack Shepard. Now Pen must act fast—because losing Jack scares Pen more than rattling chains and cold spots...

A crumbling mansion, dozens of unsolved murders, and a King Arthur mystery. This is one haunted house Taryn will never forget! The astrologer told her that her destiny awaited in Wales. She should have known the ghosts were waiting, too. Taryn's latest assignment has her traveling to the haunted Welsh mansion that supposedly once housed the Holy Grail. These days, however, the formerly grand home is crumbling around her and the cantankerous caretaker is not pleased to meet Taryn-especially since her camera is revealing parts of the house's torrid and bloody history that locals would rather forget. Isolated and lonely on the Irish Sea, she slowly gets to know this isolated home that the people of Lampeter refer to as "The Cursed." Still, Taryn is nevertheless excited to explore the surrounding countryside and get to know the place of her ancestors. She loves exploring the vast moors, countless rooms, and quaint village down the road. When the mansion's caretaker winds up dead, however, all eyes are pointing at Taryn. Even with its torried past, nobody is going to believe that the house is responsible for his death. It's up to Taryn to

THE REAL WORLD Kurt is a lonely and broken man serving a self-imposed exile from life as he treks, homeless, across the country in search the next phase of his destiny. One dark and stormy afternoon, he stumbles across a grand old abandoned mansion in the deep woods, far from anywhere. Taking shelter within, he becomes entranced with the painting of a beautiful Victorian-era woman he finds hanging in the mansion 's dusty old library. Etched into the painting are two puzzling lines: " Scattered by the wind that blows across four worlds, She longs to come back home, this poor, ensorcelled girl." THE WORLD OF FIRE A mystery within the painting sets him upon a quest across parallel worlds accessed through inter-dimensional portals inside the mansion. Worlds which test him, pushing him to his limits, and ultimately providing him with pieces of - of what? He doesn ' t know...but he doesn ' t let his ignorance stop him. THE WORLD OF THE ALL-SEEING EYE IN THE SKY What is he searching for? And what will happen when he finds it? Litchfield Hills, Connecticut, a 1790 farmhouse overlooks the epicenter of a paranormal crossroads. The family that resides there regularly encounters its own ancestors, as well as strangers - human and nonhuman - who seemingly occupy the same physical space in parallel worlds. When ghost hunters Ed and Lorraine Warren investigated, they dubbed it "Ghost Central". When William J. Hall visited the house, family member Donna Fillie showed him her journal of the paranormal activity she's experienced there over the years. Here is Donna's diary spanning five decades of uncanny occurrences, supplemented with background information provided by Hall. It tells of notes from old friends who insist they didn't deliver them; a grandson playing with an invisible - but very real - friend; and Donna awakening to phenomena at precisely 12:42 a.m. - an eerie correspondence to her house number, 1242. This compelling work includes many other kinds of inexplicable incidents that frequently occur in this otherwise normal area of Connecticut, which some believe is also the site of a secret military base.

A popular phenomenon since antiquity, the image of the haunted house is one that has translated elegantly into the modern medium of film. The haunted house transcends genre, appearing in mysteries, gothic romances, comedies and horror films. This book is the first comprehensive historical and critical study of themes surrounding haunted houses in film. Covering over 100 films, this reference work spans from the Mystery House thrillers of the silent era to the high-tech, big budget productions of the 21st Century. Included are the works of acclaimed directors such as D.W. Griffith, Robert Wise, Mario Bava, Alfred Hitchcock, Stanley Kubrick, Tim Burton and Guillermo Del Toro. The book also covers the real-life haunted house phenomenon and movies based on paranormal case files, including those featured in films like the Conjuring series.

Each tale of The Hauntings of Kingston is a standalone novel with new characters that takes place in the enigmatic city of Kingston, Ontario.

They have the chance of a lifetime...

Tim and Brad have been best friends for years. They were college roommates and now share an apartment. They even share the predicament of being trapped in dead end jobs. When a flash of inspiration strikes, they decide to open up a bed and breakfast. But their establishment is going to have a twist.

They're going to open 'The Haunted Inn'. All the guys need to do is find a creepy old mansion, create some scary special effects and watch the money roll in. They hit the jackpot when they find a place with its own macabre history. The chilly spot in the parlor?

Bonus! The feeling of dread throughout the bedrooms? Yippee! When Sophie,

Brad's lover gives a dire warning, they take it as a seal of approval! Brad and

Tim are rationalists. They're going to be able to charge a premium from people who buy into superstitions and phony

religion. This place is going to make them a fortune! Besides, if there are any apparitions or ghostly appearances, they'll be quite able to handle them. When you get right down to it, ghosts are a figment of the imagination. Right? It's the dream of a lifetime! Or is it a deadly nightmare?

This book explores Victorian and modernist haunted houses in female-authored ghost stories as representations of the architectural uncanny. It reconsiders the gendering of the supernatural in terms of unease, denial, disorientation, confinement and claustrophobia within domestic space. Drawing on spatial theory by Gaston Bachelard, Henri Lefebvre and Elizabeth Grosz, it analyses the reoccupation and appropriation of space by ghosts, women and servants as a means of addressing the opposition between the past and modernity. The chapters consider a range of haunted spaces, including ancestral mansions, ghostly gardens, suburban villas, Italian churches and houses subject to demolition and ruin. The ghost stories are read in the light of women's non-fictional writing on architecture, travel, interior design, sacred space, technology, the ideal home and the servant problem. Women writers discussed include Elizabeth Gaskell, Margaret Oliphant, Vernon Lee, Edith Wharton, May Sinclair and Elizabeth Bowen. This book will appeal to students and researchers in the ghost story, Female Gothic and Victorian and modernist women's writing, as well as general readers with an interest in the supernatural. Ed & Penny Wroe and six-year-old twins, Andy & Candy, live near Fordsville, KY in a haunted house they found in the first book in this trilogy, "The Ghostly Hideaway." Daughter, Crissy, lives nearby with new hubby, Johnny O'Reilly. Ed & Johnny have a new employee, Ramon Mendez, in their carpenter business who ends up being shot. Ramon learned the hard way that being in a heroin smuggling gang means you don't quit without consequences. A long-lost aunt, Wilhelmina, discovers she can communicate with the Wroe's resident ghosts. She finds out that the triplet sisters who lived there during the French and Indian wars also suffered the consequences of trying to buck the system. Now Wilhelmina must find a way to free their spirits. The twins find their very own ghost and Shadowhawk needs their help badly. He had been banished by his tribe when accused of a bank robbery. Even though he was not guilty, he must find a way to prove his innocence before he can be free to join the spirit world. These ghostly happenings along with heroin smuggling, murder, crooked cops and scheming politicians, one planned pregnancy and another definitely unplanned along with a mature but very sweet romance, spice up this thriller which switches locales between Laredo, TX and the Kentucky Haunted Hideout. Detective Bernie Tavelerio along with another brave young man who did find a way out, lead the way in finding justice for his fallen friend. The third book in the trilogy is, "The Phantoms' Refuge."

"Like Stephen King, he knows how to summon serious scares." - Bentley Little, The Mailman "One of the most thrilling writers working today. Miss him at your peril." - Black Crouch, Wayward Pines A paranormal conference at the most haunted hotel in the Blue Ridge Mountains goes haywire when ghost hunters accidentally stir up demons.

SPEED DATING WITH THE DEAD When Digger Wilson brings his paranormal team Spirit Seekers International to the White Horse Inn, he is skeptical that his dead wife will keep her half of the bargain. He doesn't believe in ghosts, and just before she died, she promised to meet him there. But when one of the conference guests channels a mysterious presence and an Ouija board spells out a pet phrase known only to Digger and his wife, his convictions are challenged. And when guests start to disappear, Digger and his daughter Kendra must face the circle of demons that view the hotel as their personal playground. Because soon the inn will be closing for good, angels can't be trusted, and demons don't like to play alone . . . ----- For horror fiction fans of Stephen King, Joe Hill, and James Herbert and haunted house stories. grief-stricken spirit who becomes very attached to him...too attached. He learns that the Ghost Mother is preying in the cruelest imaginable way on four child ghosts who are trapped in the house, stealing their energy to sustain her own. Before Jack can figure out how to help them, the Ghost Mother takes possession of his real mother ' s body. Jack wants to fight back, but he has severe asthma and risks fatal attacks with any physical exertion. It will take all his resources, and his mother ' s as well, to fight off the Ghost Mother and save the ghost children from a horrible fate.

“ But Sol, it ain't haunted like you thought, ” Marty argued cautiously. It wasn't a good idea to get Sol too angry. “ We've tried everything, séances, Ouija boards, mediums—everything. This place is just an old, empty house. A creepy, old house. ” Sol shook his head, disregarding Marty's words, and started up the tall staircase to the second floor. “ It just has to seem like a haunted house, ” he said.

“ We'll keep the crowds coming if it seems like a haunted house. People pay good money to spend the night in a haunted mansion. ” Marty followed him, shaking his head.

“ After that last paranormal research group came through and found nothing, we ain't been getting the crowds like we used to, ” he pointed out. “ People look on the internet for everything. All they have to do is research the house and they'll see we've been investigated by three different groups. They ain't gonna pay top dollar to stay in the state's most haunted house if it ain't got no ghosts. ” Sol stopped at the top of the stairs and waited for Marty. “ Then all we need is a ghost, ” he said. Marty shook his head and put his hand on his partner's shoulder. “ Sol, we've been at this for three years, ” he replied. “ The balloon payment is coming up in three months. We ain't got the capital. We gotta let go of this place before we lose everything. ” Shoving Marty's arm off his shoulder, Sol paced angrily down the hallway. “ Don't you get it, Marty? ” he growled, his teeth clenched. “ I'm going to lose everything if this place doesn't pan out. I sunk everything I owned into this place. I don't have any reserves. I don't have anything to turn to. This place has to work out. ” Marty leaned one hand on the balustrade at the top of the staircase and sadly shook his head. “ I'm sorry, Sol. I'd do anything to help you, ” he said sadly. “ But this place just ain't got a ghost. ” Sol sighed deeply and turned back to his friend, nodding his head slowly. “ Thank you, Marty, ” he replied. A icy tremor of fear swept through Marty's body as he saw the cold, calculating look in Sol's eyes. He lifted his hands defensively. “ No, Sol, no, ” he cried even as he felt the power of Sol's body knock him backwards and down the stairs. A few moments later, Sol stood at the top of the staircase, looking down at the broken, lifeless body of his business partner sprawled unnaturally on the black and white, ceramic tiled, lobby floor. He leaned against the same balustrade that only moments before had been held by Marty and nodded. “ And now we have a ghost. ”

THE HOME OF ESTHER COX. Amherst, Nova Scotia, is a beautiful little village on the famous Bay of Fundy; has a population of about three thousand souls, and contains four churches, an academy, a music hall, a large iron foundry, a large shoe factory, and more stores of various kinds than any village of its size in the Province. The private residences of the more wealthy inhabitants are very picturesque in their appearance, being surrounded by beautifully laid out lawns, containing ornamental trees of various kinds and numerous beds of flowers of choice and sometimes very rare varieties. The residences of Parson Townsend, Mr. Robb, Doctor Nathan Tupper, and Mr. G.G. Bird, proprietor of the Amherst book store; also that of Mr. Amos Purdy, the village Post Master, and others too numerous to mention, are sure to attract the visitor's attention and command his admiration. On Princess street, near Church, there stands a neat two story cottage, painted yellow. It has in front a small yard, which extends back to the stable. The tidy appearance of the cottage and its pleasant situation are sure to attract a stranger's attention. Upon entering the house everything is found to be so tastefully arranged, so scrupulously clean, and so comfortable, that the visitor feels at home in a moment, being confident that everything is looked after by a thrifty housewife. The first floor consists of four rooms, a parlor containing a large bay window, filled with beautiful geraniums of every imaginable color and variety, is the first to attract attention; then the dining room, with its old fashioned clock, its numerous home made rugs, easy chairs, and commodious table, makes one feel like dining, especially if the hour is near twelve; for about that time of day savory odors are sure to issue from the adjoining kitchen. The kitchen is all that a room of the kind in a village cottage should be, is not very large, and contains an ordinary wood stove, a large pine table, and a small washstand, has a door opening into the side yard near the stable, and another into the wash shed, besides the one connecting it with the dining room, making three doors in all, and one window. The fourth room is very small, and is used as a sewing room; it adjoins the dining room, and the parlor, and has a door opening into each. Besides the four rooms on the first floor, there is a large pantry, having a small window about four feet from the floor, the door of this pantry opens into the dining room. Such is the arrangement of the first floor.
