Zeb Taylor does a favor for his twin brother one day pretending to be him. Now because of it, he wakes up in Vegas married to a sexy blackjack dealer and he can't remember doing it. He goes from being one of Michigan's most eligible bachelors to having a wife he doesn't know or want, a twin brother who hates him for stealing his bride, and a crazy aunt who shows up only making his life more stressful thinking she's a matchmaker. Catalina Cordovano has made a horrible mistake. In her hurry to marry a rancher that she thinks will take her far away from her troubles and an abusive boss and ex-boyfriend, she's married the man's twin brother. And to make matters worse, he is what she hates most in life - a lawyer. Will a mix-up destroy two people who are used to getting whatever they want by using their looks and their money? Or can this facade of a marriage make them realize they are meant for each other before their annulment is finalized?

Lord Conlin de Braose has made an alliance to marry a Scottish laird's daughter. But when her ship goes down at sea, the bounty he pulls from the wreckage is the woman's proxy - Isobel MacEwen instead. Isobel MacEwen has been tricked into being her cousin's proxy because of her love of shoes. Now she's not only being married to an English baron, but has been a witness to her king's murder. With only a pair of shoes as evidence, even the baron is a suspect. Can a baron of the Cinque Ports keep his alliance to ensure the safety of his daughter and his people? Or will he risk all and break his word in order to be with the woman he loves?

Perseus, demi-god and son of Zeus, is on a mission to save his mother's life. He needs to behead Medusa and bring it back to the evil king of Seriphus in a fortnight, or his mother will be killed. Princess Andromeda is on a mission of her own. Once thought to be the successor to The Oracle of Delphi, she bravely sits atop the throne over the pit of knowledge in trickery, to get an answer from the oracle herself. She is to be sacrificed to a sea serpent in order to save her village and the oracle tells her only the demi-god Perseus can slay the beast. When Perseus seeks out the oracle in order to find the abode of Medusa, the feisty Princess Andromeda tries to trick him to go on a quest of her own. Shadows of doubt linger and it is certain someone will lose their life with one wrong choice, in The Oracle of Delphi.

The Scottish Bride: Coira MacDuff has lived a hard life. Once a prisoner of the English and held captive in a hanging cage, she is hesitant to marry an Englishman. USA Today bestselling author Sharon Cullen's Highland Pride series continues as Scotland's most reckless smuggler meets his match in a beautiful spitfire who arouses a renewed sense of duty, camaraderie, and passion. Colin MacLean has always felt like a black sheep—especially after his brothers are slain before his eyes in the Battle of Culloden. A smuggler by trade, Colin makes for an embarrassing chieftain. He can't even save his friends from their British pursuers without getting himself captured. But before he is martyred by the hangman's noose, Colin escapes with his cellmate, a brave lad he's come to admire. It's only in the depths of the Highlands that Colin discovers the lad is a lass—and a bonnie one at that. Raised by her older brothers, Maggie Sinclair can drink a pint in no time flat and wield a dagger with the best of 'em. Still, men have always excluded her and women have always shunned her. Colin makes her feel different. His wild spirit and rugged good looks have Maggie reconsidering her less than ladylike ways. For the first time, she's tempted to put on a gown, just to see how Colin would react. She can only imagine what might happen next: a kiss. . . a touch. . . and perhaps enough sultry heat to melt a cold Highland night. NEWLY MINTED LAIRD SEEKS WIFE, PREFERABLY HANDY AND RESOURCEFUL Laird Dicoal Gordon has just inherited his uncle's run down castle and rag-tag clan. He knows the sorry sight of the castle would send any woman running, but is determined to find a wife to help return his home to its former glory. Widowed lady Jane Stanley is determined to return to England, even if she has to tromp through the Scottish Highlands on foot to get there. Her travels lead her straight into the midst of a troop of dangerous Highland warriors. The mysterious, brawny laird forbids his men to harm her, and the spark between them is immediate. The only way Dicoal can keep her safe is to take her home with him, but will the miserable state of his clan douse her newly ignited Highland flame? Book 5 Rapunzel de Bar has been kidnapped and cursed by the old witch, Hecuba. She's trapped in a tower that has one window and no doors. When she tries an escape on her own, she meets the Dragon Lord in training, Marco Drago del Rossi III. But he's more interested in chasing down criminals for the bounty instead of saving damsels in distress - until they share a kiss. Can a Dragon Lord in training and a cursed lady find love amongst all the turmoil that magic has placed in their lives? And is escape even an option for Rapunzel with a curse so dark that Marco is forced to push his past aside and risk everything for the girl he loves? Love knows no bounds, and sometimes a prison is not physical . . . but self-made.

Maxim Thorn is a ruthless Alpha, a mobster king who rules his pack with an iron fist. He's also my only hope. As a shifter from the wrong side of the tracks who's just been rejected by my abusive fated mate, I don't have a lot of options in this city. I have no choice but to make a deal with the devil. But that doesn't mean I'm powerless. I have an ace up my sleeve, a bargaining chip Maxim can't resist. He wants revenge on my pack leaders for poisoning his father, and I hold the key to his enemy's destruction. In exchange for one month of protection from my ex and his friends, I promise to give Maxim what he wants-me. I expect honoring the bargain to be pure hell. I don't expect to ignite every time we touch or to develop a soft spot for this wounded wolf. His blood calls to mine, and I'm starting to think this wicked king may have a heart after all. But is there room in his world for love? Or am I destined to become a pawn in his dark game?

A Buchanan brother finds a love to treasure in this scintillating historical romance from New York Times bestselling author Lynsay Sands... After escaping from the English soldiers who attacked her home and imprisoned her in a dungeon, Lady Elysande de Valance is grateful for the rugged Scots who are escorting her to safety in the Highlands. Even with danger dogging their every step, she hadn't expected to welcome the strong comforting embrace of their leader, Rory Buchanan. They say he's a healer, but she finds the heat of his touch does so much more. Let his brothers get married-Rory is too busy tending to the sick to be bothered with wooing a bride. But when he is tasked with accompanying a family friend's "treasure" to the Highlands, he is surprised to learn the treasure is a beautiful woman on the run--and even more surprised to discover bruises hidden by her veil. Rory makes it his mission to tend to her injuries and protect her, but the thought of losing her makes him realize that perhaps it is his heart that is most in need of healing.

Lysandra is a proud Amazon warrior, determined to surrender her heart and her future to no man. But she must produce a child. Zarek, master thief and king of Thrace, will stop at nothing to secure an heir. Their child, conceived in passion and born in turmoil, is destined to die at the hands of the gods unless Lysandra and Zarek risk their lives in a deadly contest.

Book 2 At a young age, Summer has sacrificed herself for the sake of her family by marrying the evil and abusive Baron Mowbray of Suffolk. A few years after birthing him a son, the baron mysteriously dies, leaving her toddler heir to his estate. The king grants Summer one month to find and marry a man of her choice. But Summer would never consider marrying any relative of her late husband, especially not his domineering nephew. Sir Warren Mowbray returns from battle to find his uncle has died and with him went the man's promise that Warren would inherit his holdings. Now, to add insult to injury, the king has assigned him as the widow's guardian and advisor while she chooses a husband. Once he arrives at the castle, he discovers Summer is a beautiful, smart, determined woman but with a mind of her own. He plans to woo her, but she wants nothing to do with him. He also has his suspicions that the hated baron might have been murdered - and Summer is the main suspect. Can a strong, determined woman and a controlling warrior find love between them or will they destroy each other first? Watch for Autumn's Touch - Book 3, and Winter's Flame - Book 4 coming soon! Ian MacKeefe is haunted by the demons in his head, haunting him of his tarnished past. Then, in the bonfire on All Hallow's Eve, he sees the face of Tearlach MacTavish, the man he'd killed and buried three years ago. Not a settling thought since this is the night when the veil is pushed aside and the dead are said to be able to come back to life. Kyla has grown up with Ian, as her brother Aidan is his best friend. And while Ian thinks of her as naught more than a wee sister, she has fallen in love with him through the years, and plans on proving to him she is much more than he thinks. But love is the last thing on Ian's mind, especially when their clan chieftain makes an alliance with the enemy, betrothing Kyla to one of them in the process. Can Ian overcome his past before it's too late? And will he notice that the lassie he's considered naught more than a wee sister is a strong and beautiful woman who he is about to lose forever?

Sir Braden is headed to Banesmoot to hire out his sword. But when he gets there he is promised the lord's daughter in marriage as well as a huge dowry if he can capture the spy within the castle's walls. Portia-Maer is an elemental of the air, called a sylph. She can brew up a storm with the mere flick of her wrist. She is half fae and half human, and has been sent by her wretched stepmother to spy, as a battle is in the planning. Since one of Portia's powers is the ability to turn invisible, she has no problem carrying out this task. But when she is distracted by the landless knight who is promised a marriage and title he doesn't deserve, she drops her guard and he discovers her presence. To her surprise, the man says he knows her and that she has healed him with just a kiss. Can Sir Braden keep his commitment to not only marry a woman he doesn't love, but also expose the girl of his dreams as the spy? Or will Portia be able to convince him that there is so much more to her than meets the eye? Passion and power collide as two sides meet in a deadly battle. When dark secrets from the past are exposed, lives are not only threatened, but changed forever.

Its halls seem to echo with ghostly voices, and a lecherous villain has set his sights on Adeline. "The Romance of the Forest" was Ann Radcliffe's third published novel, and her first literary success. Mixing threats real and supernatural, it builds a thrilling mystery while also exploring the power imbalances of 17th century society. A must for fans of Gothic literature. Ann Radcliffe (1764–1823) was a British writer who helped popularise Gothic fiction. Born in London, her writing career took off after her marriage to the journalist William Radcliffe. His work meant he wasn't often at home, so Ann began writing in his absence. Unlike other Gothic writers, she favoured psychological horror over the supernatural, and female protagonists over male ones. Her best known novels include "The Mysteries of Udolpho", "The Italian" and "A Sicilian Romance". Radcliffe's fans include Dostoyevsky and Edgar Allan Poe, and her style was even parodied by Jane Austen in her classic book "Northanger Abbey".*

Ourselfves, the fourth volume of Charlotte Mason's Classic Homeschooling Series, is a character curriculum book written directly to children. Book I, Self-Knowledge, is for elementary school students; Book II, Self-Direction, is for older students. Self-Knowledge discusses our human desires and appetites; the "helpers" in our minds, such as intellect, sense of beauty, imagination, and reason; the ways in which we feel and express love for others, including sympathy, kindness, generosity, gratitude, courage, loyalty, and humility; and truth, justice, and integrity; and ends by encouraging children to develop the habit of being useful. Self-Direction is an in-depth discussion of the conscience and virtues such as temperance, chastity, fortitude, and prudence; the will and self-control; and the soul and its capacities, such as prayer, thanksgiving, faith, and praise. Charlotte Mason was a late nineteenth-century British educator whose ideas were far ahead of her time. She believed that children are born persons worthy of respect, rather than blank slates, and that it was better to feed their growing minds with living literature and vital ideas and knowledge, rather than dry facts and knowledge filtered and pre-digested by the teacher. Her method of education, still used by some private schools and many homeschooling families, is gentle and flexible, especially with younger children, and includes first-hand exposure to great and noble ideas through books in each school subject, conveying wonder and arousing curiosity, and through reflection upon great art, music, and poetry; nature observation as the primary means of early science teaching; use of manipulatives and real-life application to understand mathematical concepts and learning to reason, rather than rote memorization and working endless sums; and an emphasis on character and on cultivating and maintaining good personal habits.
