Seven Simple Steps to Landing Your First Job: The Shortest Path from Here to Hired is a unique addition to the range of career books. Rather than discussing resumes, interviews, and job sites, Seven Simple Steps shows how to bring these elements together into a manageable process. As this book goes into print, 15 million people in the United States are unemployed. About 2 million people enter the job market from undergraduate and graduate programs each year. Without some advantage, most of those graduates will be wading into a sea of numbers that are overwhelmingly against them. This book is that advantage.

Oxford Mathematics for the Caribbean has been updated to cater for the needs of the classroom in the 21st century. Features of each book in the series include: prior learning points; fully differentiated exercises to cater for a wide range of ability; activities and investigations to encourage mathematical thinking; summaries of the main points of each unit with questions to check understanding, so that students can test themselves; and regular revision exercises to help monitor progress. The series is intended for secondary school pupils studying for the Caribbean Examinations Council (CXC) examinations in mathematics.

independence become a nightmare when their social media ads get ignored and product launches are met with chirping crickets. Jenn Scalia was one of these women, barely scraping by as she struggled to turn her passion into an online business. After turning her back on the advice of so-called experts, Jenn finally saw success—and a LOT of it. In less than 3 years, Jenn's business exploded to multiple 6-figures, then multiple 7-figures in total revenue. In this book, Jenn teaches you everything she learned to go from rock bottom to household name, including how to:—Cultivate a 6-figure mindset—Get clarity on your target market—Chose the most profitable business model for YOU—Create killer content that positions you as an authority—Build and launch programs that people tell their friends about. . . and so much more! Whether you already own an online business or are eager for your first sale, Your First Six Figures gives you the proven, step-by-step strategies you need to captivate your audience, create raving fans and maximize your impact. The only book of its kind on the market today, COMMERCIAL DRAFTING AND DETAILING, 4E will give you everything you need to teach effectively - and with ease. You won't have to spend time pulling together pieces of various trade publications and supplementing them with your notes because it's all here, in one comprehensive resource. The fourth edition maintains the winning features of its previous editions; clear explanations and professional, practical examples that walk students through the architectural and structural drawings required in a complete set of commercial plans. It then builds on these successes by increasingly integrating design components into each chapter, replacing free-hand sketches with CAD skeleton drawings, and updating the information to reflect the 2015 International Building Code. The end result: you can spend less time preparing to teach and more time teaching, and your students get a valuable tool for staying current with industry trends and preparing to succeed in the classroom and beyond. Be accountable and achieve success Personal accountability is the secret weapon of every successful sales professional. It is the secret weapon of Where Winners Live co-author Dave Porter, who became the owner and CEO of Baystate Financial Services at age 35 and grew it into a $100 million-a-year business over the next 15 years. It is the secret weapon of Where Winners Live co-author Linda Galindo, who transformed herself from the self-proclaimed Queen of Victims into an entrepreneur, business coach, consultant and speaker whose typical audience numbers 500 or more. Like all highly accountable professionals, these authors live Where Winners Live, an achievement they say is available to everyone. Written in a no-excuses tone and filled with personal stories and practical exercises, their book offers readers the non-negotiable, high-performance behaviors of the sales trade and tried-and-true best practices for success. Exposes the key difference between top-earning sales professionals and those who struggle to make their numbers every quarter. Outlines the three critical characteristics of personal accountability: responsibility, self-empowerment, and ownership of results after the fact. Explores personal accountability from the perspective of both leaders and rank-and-file sales professionals. Where Winners Live shows readers the most effective way to hold themselves and others accountable.

In the Gilded Age, when most sculptors aspired to produce monuments, Bessie Potter Vonnoh (1872-1955) made significant contributions to small bronze sculpture and garden statuary designed for the embellishment of the home. Her work commanded admiration for her fluid and suggestive modeling, graceful lines, and sculptural form. In 1904 Bessie Potter Vonnoh won the gold medal for sculpture at the St. Louis World's Fair for bronzes of contemporary American women and children that delighted all who saw them. Although Vonnoh's work is represented today in museums throughout the United States, Bessie Potter Vonnoh: Sculptor of Women provides for the first time an intimate and engaging encounter with one of the most widely respected sculptors of her day. Julie Aronson explores how, by concentrating on sculpture for domestic settings that expertly combined naturalism with elegance, Vonnoh negotiated a male-dominated field to create a pathway to professional success and made high-quality sculpture accessible to a wider audience. In an essay that examines Vonnoh's relationship with her foundries and scrutinizes bronze castings, Janis Conner demystifies baffling issues of authenticity and quality in turn-of-the-century bronzes. This copiously illustrated book, indispensable for all sculpture enthusiasts, accompanies the first exhibition since 1930 dedicated to the art of Bessie Potter Vonnoh.

The late Albert Elsen was the first American scholar to study seriously the work of the French sculptor Auguste Rodin, and the person most responsible for a revival of interest in the artist as a modern innovator--after years during which the sculpture had been dismissed as so much Victorian bathos. After a fortuitous meeting with the financier, philanthropist, and art collector B. Gerald Cantor, Elsen helped Cantor to build up a major collection of Rodin's work. A large part of this collection, consisting of more than 200 pieces, was donated to the Stanford Museum by Mr. Cantor, who died recently. In size it is surpassed only the by the Musée Rodin in Paris and rivaled only by the collection in Philadelphia. In scope the collection is unique in having been carefully selected to present a balanced view of Rodin's work throughout his life. Rodin's Art encompasses a lifetime's thoughts on Rodin's career, surveying the artist's accomplishments through the detailed discussion of each object in the collection. It will begin with essays on the formation of the collection, the reception of Rodin's work, and his casting techniques. The entries that follow are arranged topically and include extensive discussions of Rodin's major projects.

"Teaching small business management courses is exciting, but it can also be quite challenging. Some students take courses in small business management because they want to start and run their own firm someday. For other students, the idea of having their own business is appealing, even though they know they prefer to have a regular job after they graduate. Yet other students may find themselves in a small business management course when looking for an interesting elective to take. Most college students have very little experience actually managing a business. Some students, however, have grown up in a small business where they saw one or both parents (and sometimes, grandparents) work hard in the business. In other words, there are few similarities in how much students know and care about small firms. My goal in writing this text is to encourage student learning and engagement with small business, regardless of differences in students' motivations and reasons for signing up for this course"--

"The book I wish I had when I was struggling to figure out how to take my business next level. Follow Susie's strategies and power up your success!" —JJ Virgin, founder of Mindshare Collaborative and New York Times bestselling author A comprehensive bulletproof start-to-finish plan for taking your business from startup mode to the million-dollar mark straight from the inventor of the Predictable Success Method. In the United States, most people who own small businesses struggle daily to make ends meet. Two-thirds of businesses earn less than $25,000 a year. Thankfully, Susie Carder—entrepreneur and business coach to everyone from Steve Harvey to Paula Mitchell—has developed the ultimate formula for incredible success. But she didn't get it overnight. Susie Carder was at rock bottom financially during the Great Recession in 2008 when she was inspired to dig in and rebuild her fortune from the ground up. Now she takes what she learned during that difficult time and shares her radical business strategies that have helped countless entrepreneurs and small business owners increase their revenues by more than 3,000%. As the creator of the Predictable Success Method, Susie Carder has a proven, twenty-year track record that includes building two $10 million companies herself, which she later sold. Filled with clear-eyed and practical advice, Power Your Profits teaches you how to run your daily operations, understand your finances, account for sales, and employ marketing systems that lead to predictable, substantial revenue and profit growth. And now, she's sharing her hard-won wisdom—worth $5,000 an hour in coaching fees—with you.

You've got amazing ideas and a beautiful offering for the world—but you are still struggling to put it all into words and finally get your book done! For coaches, freelancers, entrepreneurs, and small business owners who: - Struggle to find time to write - Have competing priorities that prevent them from getting their book done - Feel like time is moving so slow - Aren't sure how to get a big project like a first draft done - Wish there was an easy way to get their words down - Want to try dictation or transcription - Are very busy running a successful business and don't know when they'll find time to write! This book is the answer you Need Your Book Now. Here's how you can get your ideas out into the world in minutes (or blog posts, or social media updates!) started in just eight minutes a day.

Taylor Crenshaw is a lifelong Democrat, but her parents are staunch Republicans. When things get even worse, her ultraconservative father has just been elected president. Although she prefers to live her life openly, her father would rather she stay in the closet.

When she meets Robby Rawlins, will she choose to give in to her father's demands or follow her heart? Robby Rawlins works at an antique store by day. She spends her nights anonymously skewering politicians in her blog. President Terry Crenshaw's anti-gay rhetoric gave Robby plenty to write about during a contentious campaign, but a meeting with his daughter leaves her at a loss for words. Getting the scoop has been Robby's goal. Now it might come second to getting the girl. Unless she can find a way to do both.
