The Evangelical Lutheran Hymn-Book was the English hymnal of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, published in 1912. It was published in text only and text and music editions. In its liturgical texts, Evangelical Lutheran Hymn-Book was similar to The Common Service Book of the Lutheran Church. Since Common Service Book was published in 1917 and five or six years later, ELHB displays an older version of the Common Service and other texts.

The Lutheran Hymnal is commonly referred to by many to as the "Red hymnal," in contrast with LW, the "Blue hymnal." However, the "Red hymnal" moniker is somewhat misleading. The initial editions of TLH were in fact bound in blue, and the hymnal has been simultaneously available in both red and blue cover versions for much of its history. Although the red version is now more common, many congregations' pew racks are filled with blue-covered copies of the "red" hymnal.
