>>Opportunistic Urbanism is a masters level studio at the Melbourne School of Design, which proposes a two-way exchange between two contrasting metropolises: Melbourne, a sprawling monocentric city, and South Holland (the Southern Randstad), a polycentric urban region comprising Rotterdam, Delft, the Hague and Leiden.

About — opportunistic urbanism

The OPPORTUNISTIC URBANISM Design Studio focused on the reinsertion of alternative models of low income housing into established urban areas of Guadalajara and created speculative propositions that engaged the urban situation in a very direct way. It focused on the relationships to the urban context and its socio-spatial idiosyncrasies, attempting to maximise the sites and conditions of opportunity in the urban fabric.
